Definition

Imagination: the faculty of producing ideal creations consistent with reality, as in literature, as distinct from the power of creating illustrative or decorative imagery. (Dictionary.com)

And yet it means so much more than this definition, We see imagination every day, even if someone is sleeping in class. The world is full of it and we don't usually acknowledge it. Imagination is more than just the thoughts in our minds. It helps people find peace in the chaos. Imagination is everywhere whether it be an escape from reality, a way to express yourself, or a form of entertainment. Read and you will find that our world is like the one that a famous candy maker described.

Our world has a lot of problems from pandemics to the way certain races are portrayed, or it could go down to an individual level, like losing a loved one or a job. So sometimes people think of imaginative worlds so they can just escape the world they are in, it isn't even just thoughts they could make art to help them cope, they could make music so that they can let go of being dumped by an ex. However they choose to do it, they try to avoid the spot that they are in and just try to escape.

While some imagination is the light within the Darkness, some of it is a way for voices that are usually never heard to be heard, and TV shows like America's got talent is a great example of that, on the show you never see the same type of act win they have singers, magicians, stunt groups, beautiful dancers, etc. but they are different and a just as amazing to see. And other media like art, music, and books form the smaller companies and people are just as important as the big companies.

The people who come up with the ideas for the attractions you see at the Disney parks are Called "Imaginieners" and for good reason. They make some of the most incredible expenses people can have in Florida, California, Hong Kong, France, or Shanghai. Meanwhile the creativity from the Video game company Nintendo they have made games that may not push the boundaries of gaming but offer extremely high-quality titles that you can't find anywhere else. Or the Movies and Shows that are put out by Warner Brothers, movies like "Dune" or "Justice League: The Snyder Cut" recently Warner revealed a trailer for a show called "Come and Learn with Pibby" and it is already at 10 million views on youtube and people want to see it happen. These companies have the original ideas and the creative minds to make it happen.

Imagination isn't what the books say it is so much more people use it for healing, to show who they are, or even to make a profit and blow people away while they are at it. The world has had imagination since the benign and as long as there are people there will always be imagination. The world around is always better because the people with the best imagination strive to make it that way. It is fitting to end this with one of the most imaginative minds of our lifetime." Laughter is timeless, imagination has no age, and dreams are forever."(Walt Disney)
